

ADAMS STATE UNIVERSITY

Hello ASU Alumni and Friends:

What a year! I sincerely thank all the supporters listed in this year's Donor Report. You are part of the largest group of donors in the last ten years. We are making a difference, and we keep growing.

As the Alumni Director for the last eleven years, I have seen the successes of our alumni. I have heard stories of how that success was hard-earned. We alumni have done many things to get through college: working in the cafeteria, doing custodial work, or holding night jobs, to name a few. We've worked hard, and we've made it. Now we are successful educators, business people, counselors, lawyers, doctors, etc.

As alumni share their stories with me, I have noticed a common thread: Adams State provided an opportunity, not a guarantee, but an opportunity. Some of us, including me, would not be where we are today if Adams State had not been reasonably priced, or if a faculty member hadn't taken an interest in our success, or we didn't have a work-study job. Personally, had I not received the Alumni Scholarship and been given a work-study job, my future may not have been possible. I was a first-generation student from a hard-working middle class family who attended a small high school. Adams State was my chance, and I'm grateful more and more every year that Adams State was my choice.

I'm also aware of tuition increases and the financial burden that places on students. When I was a freshman in the fall of 1987, tuition and fees were $553 per semester. Today that amounts to $3,981. Students still need help; therefore, support from the Adams State University Foundation is just as important today, if not more so, than it ever was. That is why I said "yes" when the Foundation recently asked me to assist in establishing scholarships and planned gifts.

I always want our alumni to feel comfortable at our events and not worry about being asked for a donation. That has not changed. I still plan to meet with alumni throughout the country to hear your stories, update you on ASU, and visit about the good old times. If you are expecting a high-pressure sales pitch from me, it won't happen.

But, if you've come to a place in your life where you are ready to give back, realizing that the opportunity that Adams State gave you is worth passing on, give me a call, and we can go to work. It is surprisingly simple to establish a scholarship at ASU. It can be adding a few lines to your will, using your IRA, or planning a yearly contribution.

I look forward to seeing more of our amazing alumni at our events or in my travels. I'd love to see you when I'm in your area!

All my best,

Lori Lee Laske '91, '01, MA, CFRE
Executive Director of Alumni & Donor Relations

Gemstones donated to Art Dept.

Adams State University art students will be able to add more bling to their jewelry creations, thanks to Jim Miles and Claudia "Curtis" Ramsay, who donated a collection of gemstones valued at more than $60,000 for student use. This was the Boulder couple's second such donation to Adams State; the first was valued at $70,000.

Art professor Dana Provence, who teaches sculpture and jewelry making classes, explained advanced jewelry students will be able to purchase the gems for use in their projects at a slight discount.

"These gifts have created a flurry of excitement and interest for the jewelry program and students. The two sizable collections represent a wealth of diversity in types of gemstones and variety of cuts," Provence said. "Students will benefit for years to come. They will be able to reference the collection and design original body art to include one or more of these gemstones. It is a fabulous opportunity created by these generous donors."

Dana Provence created the sterling silver Clothespin Ring, featuring a stone from the Miles/Ramsay collection, to demonstrate alternative settings.

NEW SCHOLARSHIPS

CARLY DELORENZO - SOFTBALL

Established in honor of Adams State softball standout Carly DeLorenzo '13, the scholarship will award $1,000 annually to a full-time student on the Adams State softball team. It was established by Carly's parents, Phillip '83 and Patricia '83 DeLorenzo. Carly's siblings, Rocco DeLorenzo '12 and Roxi Vigil '10, are also Adams State alumni, as is her uncle, Christopher DeLorenzo '90.

ALUMNI/FOUNDATION OFFICE ENDOWMENT

This scholarship is open to San Luis Valley students with a minimum GPA of 2.5. Rich Gehlbach '59 established it in honor of the staff of Adams State's Alumni & Foundation office: Gaylene Horning '94, Lori Laske '91, '01, and Tammy Lopez '91, '00. A resident of Olathe, Kan., Gehlbach regularly attends Adams State Homecoming and the Donor & Student Recognition Dinner.

NEW MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIPS

ERIN GILMORE MEMORIAL ENDOWMENT

This scholarship will be awarded to a student who has a passion for writing and desire for study in liberal arts, as determined by the English Department faculty. It was established by Erin's cousin Katie Fundalinski and Erin's parents, Dr. Tom '67, '68 and Pat '68 Gilmore.

Fundalinski said, "Our dear Erin was a gift in so many ways, but one of the most important was her presence as a creative mind and inspirational writer. Writing was her way to communicate, emote, and share life in a unique way."

ELAINE SOUTHWAY MEMORIAL ENDOWMENT

San Luis Valley high schools graduates will get preference for this scholarship for college juniors and seniors. It was established by Butch & Izora '66 Southway and Joanne (Southway) Clayton '61.

DALE UMBERGER '69 LUNCHBOX MEMORIAL

The football teammates from 1966-72 of Dale Umberger '69 established this scholarship for a varsity football player with a minimum GPA of 2.5; preference will be given to a defensive player.

Umberger was a linebacker during the golden years of Adams State's football program, when winning conference championships and post-season bowls was the norm. The teammates created a scholarship to commemorate those years and to memorialize Dale, who exemplified players of that era. Many of Umberger's teammates went on to play in the NFL and CFL. Dale and the majority of his teammates were just hard workers, "lunchbox players" that got the job done through toil and team work.

Dale went on to a career in education and coaching in his native Pennsylvania and spent his life imparting the values he learned at Adams State on the football field and in the classroom with generations of youth.

Grant supports concurrent enrollment educators

Teachers and, ultimately, students in rural Colorado will benefit from a Colorado Department of Higher Education (CDHE) grant awarded to the Adams State University Foundation to support the Concurrent Enrollment Teaching Initiative. The $100,000 grant will cover tuition costs for qualified educators throughout the state who wish to become concurrent enrollment instructors, according to Dr. Ed Crowther, chair of Adams State's History Department.

"Starting this June, a cohort of 15-20 social studies teachers will be enrolled in Adams State graduate courses leading to concurrent enrollment instructor eligibility," Crowther said. Adams State's Master of Arts in Humanities - American history emphasis is Colorado's only online master's degree in a discipline taught in the secondary environment. "The grant will fund teachers who already have an M.A. to complete 24 hours of coursework in history," he added.

Colorado has successfully expanded concurrent enrollment (CE) courses, which offer high school and college credit simultaneously, at little or no direct cost to the student. While many educators hold a master's degree in the field of education, very few have also completed the required 18 hours of graduate level instruction within their specific content area, which the Higher Learning Commission (HLC) requires to teach college credit.

Crowther explained most teachers have not had content-specific coursework since their sophomore year of college. Updated coursework would enable them to address the post-Cold War and post-9/11 world, which are key components of the Colorado Academic Standards.

The grant was awarded by the Colorado Opportunity Scholarship Initiative, which was allocated $3.4 million last year by Colorado General Assembly to support Colorado students – especially those from low-income and/or underrepresented backgrounds – on the path to and through college and into the workforce. This historic state investment aims to address workforce readiness, the degree attainment gap, and affordability issues that put a college degree out of reach for too many Coloradans.

Eighty-five percent of Colorado's 178 school districts are considered rural. It's estimated 70 percent of students in these districts are first generation, low income, or students of color. Evidence shows that students who complete concurrent enrollment coursework are more successful in their post-secondary education, Crowther said.

Alamosa's first Rio Frio 5K benefits Grizzly Club

Alamosa's annual Ice Festival provided the perfect opportunity for a pet idea of Jeff Owsley '86: a run on the river – not along it, ON it. The president of the Grizzly Club, Owsley credits his running partner, Mark Pittman '05, '13, ASU assistant director of Housing/Residence Life, with coining the event's name: The Rio Frio. Held January 31 on a frozen, yet slightly slushy Rio Grande near Cole Park, the 5K attracted 230 runners and walkers. It garnered $3,300 in proceeds that were dedicated to Grizzly Club scholarships.

Not an athlete during college, Owsley didn't start running until age 42, when he was diagnosed with a weak heart. He started running, completed his first half-marathon, and lost 40 lbs. "My beer belly saved me," he joked.

Since then, he's run the Boston Marathon twice and even finished an ultra marathon. "The hardest part was staying awake," he said.

Owsley has been director of Alamosa's Small Business Development Center for two years, and is involved with the SLVGO (Great Outdoors) Coalition, which hopes to develop more water-based and winter recreation opportunities.

"I would like to use the running/race industry to enhance the SLV economy," he said, noting the Front Range has one of the largest running communities in the nation. Forty percent of Rio Frio participants were from out of town.
